* * This device seems to occur only on copies of the "Instauratio"; we can trace the sale of two other examples only. It is evident from the end-leaves and linings that it was impressed after the binding had been finished, although on a casual inspection the thistle ornament appears to be superimposed. The binding of the copy sold in these rooms in February last resembled this in the tooling on the back and was probably the work of the same binder.

- * * * THIS MOST INTERESTING POEM, PROBABLY THE EARLIEST CELEBRATION IN VERSE OF THE BRITISH SETTLEMENTS IN AMERICA, APPEARS TO BE ENTIRELY UNRECORDED. It consists of 572 lines in heroic couplets, besides the Epitaph on Capt. Thorpe, in 16 lines of eight syllables. After ascribing the disaster to ill-founded security, the author proceeds to a particular elegy on Captain Powle, Captain Maycocke, Captain Berckelely [John Berkeley, manager of the iron-works at Falling Creek], and Captain Thorpe [George Thorpe, agent for the college at Henrico]. He then addresses the survivors of the massacre, in particular Sir Thomas Gates, Sir Samuel Argell, Sir George Yardley, Sir Francis Wyat, and George Sandys, and finally celebrates two of the founders of Virginia, Sir Thomas Dale and Lord de la Warr. He concludes with an "Apologie" and "Epilogue."

* * RARE. These two Collections of Epigrams are usually found bound together, and were apparently so issued. The copies described by Collier (Bibl. Cat. I, 20-21) and Hazlitt (H. 86), both contained 60 leaves only, and therefore presumably wanted the first and last leaf of each part, as this copy does. A defective copy of the second part was sold in 1913, but no complete example appears among the auction records for the last forty years. An enlarged edition of the Anagrammata (9 ll. only, according to Hazlitt, H. 488-9) appeared in 1635, under the title Musarum Deliciæ; of this reissue the Britwell copy was sold in March, 1921.

- * * * FIRST EDITION OF BOTH PARTS of this important pseudo-Shakespearean play, of which ONLY TWO OTHER COPIES ARE KNOWN, one in the Capell collection at Trinity College, Cambridge, the other (imperfect) in the Huntington collection. Both parts were reprinted in 1611, with "Written by W. Sh." on title, and again in 1622, with "by W. Shakespeare." Shakespeare's own version of King John which borrows considerably from the earlier play, was written about 1595, and first published in the folio edition of 1623.

Removed from a bound volume of plays, the two parts secured together by the remains of the old binding; the defects have been fully described, but owing to the fragile state of some of the head-lines, the book will be sold not subject to return.

Together 20 vol. in 1, black letter, woodcut initials, all FINE COPIES except the last, which besides wanting two quires is in poor condition, unbound (fastened together by remains of old binding); sold as a collection not subject to return folio. c. 1520-30

-  EXCEEDINGLY RARE. The Bibliographical Society's Hand-list of books printed by Pynson after 1500 records only two dated and three undated Year Books, none of the above being included; while under Robert Redman, no Year Books are entered. Mention should however be made of the very fine collection of early Year Books in the library of George Dunn of Woolley Hall, which, with the other early law books and manuscripts in that library, was sold en bloc in 1913. This included a set, Edw. IV, 1-22, printed by Pynson and Redman, but as the collations and colophons were not given in the catalogue, it is impossible to say whether it contained any of the issues in the present volume; but from the details given, three at least were different. Besides this set (lot 337), there was another (lot 329) containing Edw. IV, 1-8. In this case collations are given, showing that the years 3, 4, 5 and 7 were of different issue from those now offered, while 6 and 8 may have been the same. There were also three Pynson Year Books, Edw. IV, 9, 20 and 21, separately bound (lots 325-327), the collations of which agreed in each case with those given above. Herbert records the dated Year Book, xix Edw. IV (No. 17 in this lot), which has a particular importance as confirming the date of Redman's removal into St. Dunstan's Parish, which otherwise rested only on the Modus tendendi unum hundredum, Apr. 18, 1527, considered by Gordon Duff to be wrongly dated.
